

Abstract

This is a study of the Arabic morphological lesson in the study of the Arab structure and its transformations. The discussion is about the morphological derivation of the word and the consequent effect on the morphological weight, so we came out with some words for a future sample for those who master this easy art. Linguists through their books and their works in order to distort that verbal image of those words. Through our follow-up to the linguists, we find a great limitation on the liberation of the school mind and the preachers and the followers in writing opinions and accept disagreement.
