

Abstract

Praise be to Allah, the Lord of the Worlds, and prayers and peace be upon the faithful Prophet Muhammad, and on his good and pure family,

I have long wanted to deal with a subject that examines the similarities between the ancient Arabic languages (or the so-called Semitic languages) and has been called repeatedly to such subjects that have not been studied at the time. Therefore I began studying the Arabic and Akkadian languages in terms of the participation of words Education) in order to stand on the research aspects, including: linguistic rooting rooted in the legacy of the ancient Iraqi language, and the time period of the common word, and changes in voice and verbal and semantic, and the language passed by the word.
