

Abstract :

The importance of this research paper on electronic piracy in cyberspace is the growing threat to the security of countries, from the importance of virtual cyberspace and the various cyber attacks received by cyberspace, which today is the first threatened entity of any country with destruction and collapse and the creation of international conflicts among them, for the purpose of the strategies and mechanisms that can be activated by international systems for the embodiment of cybersecurity international and to know the relationship of electronic piracy to make changes in the security environment, and the identification of the impact of cyber attacks, including electronic piracy in the emergence of new patterns of international conflict the most prominent of these attacks in addition to the nature of these cyber attacks and to the identification of most of the new electronic weapons this paper aims to identify the electronic race that the world is witnessing today by international regimes in the extent to which cybercrime can be reduced in cyberspace.