

Summary

The current research aims to identify the nature of volunteering and to highlight the positive aspect during the tragedy of volunteering, as well as to identify the obstacles that stand in the way of contributing to volunteering and to achieve these goals the researcher prepared a questionnaire questionnaire addressed the phenomenon the subject of research, and these have been applied The questionnaire on a sample of students of Babylon University at Babylon University numbered (131) students were selected in a random way to represent the research variables. The results of the research showed that (99.2%) Of the respondents, 69.5% of respondents said that the lack of official support is an obstacle to their contribution to volunteering.