

Abstract

The language - any language - aims at understanding and communication between its speakers, by which a clear and explicit meaning is reached, and with it the speakers reach their purposes, so the purpose of language is to convey the speaker's desire to the addressee, and therefore linguists stated that the most important condition in language is the condition of clarity and clarity.

When I read the books of the cashiers - both old and new - I drew my attention to the presence of things that are a link and a mediator for other matters, so I decided to follow them, explain their issues, and the opinions of the cashiers in them, and then analyze their ideas, so the research came, praise be to God, divided into issues It was preceded by a preface in which she spoke about the term rasul, and the expressions indicating it, followed this term in the books of the exchange officers and explained its significance, and put an appropriate definition for it. Searching for many and varied sources, starting from Sebwayh's book and its brief, through explanations of healing and ending with books of modern and contemporary scholars. I have come - thank God - to good results, some of which were mentioned in the conclusion. I pray to God - glory be to Him - for our students to benefit from it, and for it to be an idea for them. Let them start with him to broad topics in Arabic and our last prayer is that praise be to God, Lord of the worlds, and may God bless Muhammad and his pure family.